

NEW

Early Consultant Career Course

About

This essential one day course provides a comprehensive overview of everything all new consultants will need to know to excel at work.

Who should attend?

Recently appointed consultants in the first five year's of appointment or senior trainees about to be appointed as consultants.

Venue:

British Cardiovascular Society
9 Fitzroy Square, London,
W1T 5HW, UK

Date: Friday 25 January 2019

Time: 9:00 - 17:00

BOOK NOW

W: www.bcs.com/education

E: courses@bcs.com

T: +44 (0)207 380 1914

   @BritishCardioSo

Early Consultant Career Course

The Early Consultant Career Course has been newly developed to help you meet the challenges of life as a consultant.

The course programme will cover the things you never had to know as a registrar, but on which you are suddenly expected to be an expert when you become a consultant.

This one-day course is essential to surviving and maximising your opportunities in those crucial formative years as a consultant cardiologist.

Aims:

- Understand the role and expectations of a consultant
- Learn how to manage difficult situations, complications and complaints
- Gain knowledge on how to adjust to this new stage in your career.

Learning Objectives:

- Explore the job planning process and learn how to negotiate a job plan
- Understand how to continue your professional development as a consultant
- Gain a better understanding of private practice and service development.